

INFORMATION, 2018

PAUL BAILEY

When contemplating the destabilised nature of reading/watching, subject/object, place/space, surface/system and further... I recall and extend Marshal McLuhan's (1967) dictum:

When information is brushed against information the results are startling and effective. The perennial quest for involvement, fill in, takes many forms.

that

moment

when

rubs

up

against

moment

when

information

information

rubs

up

when

information

that

rubs

information

rubs

information

that

moment

up

rubs

information

that

moment

when

rubs

up

against